New warehouse for Jewell Drive

Two land sales agreements have set the stage for further expansion of the Jewell Industrial Park in South Wilmington.

The Harwick Chemical Company of Akron, Ohio and Cambridge, Mass. has agreed to buy a two and three-quarter acre parcel on Jewell Drive. The land is now owned by the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority. The Jewell Manufacturing Company, headed by William Myers of Wilton Drive, is the developer.

Harwick will build a warehouse on the property, a building of 10,000 square feet, said to have a projected value of $400,000. February 1 has been set as a completion date.

The JBF Scientific Company, already located on Jewell Drive, has agreed to buy two additional acres of land for future development. JBF is a research firm which, among its other activities, manufactures skimming devices to clean up oil spills.

Harwick is the third company to locate in the industrial park, which is located off Eames Street. The land involved had been broken up by land speculators many years ago. The Wilmington Redevelopment Authority took charge, cleared the title to the land, and assembled it into usable industrial parcels.

Build now, cook later

New restaurant rises on site of old diner

by Elaine DePasquale

"It has always been a dream of mine to own a restaurant," said Jim Campbell, the owner of Campbell's, a new restaurant being built on Main Street on the site of the old Wilmington Diner.

The restaurant, which is expected to open for business on October 1, will specialize in ice cream and fried foods. It will feature booth service, a take-out window, and, during the summer months, a patio and picnic tables.

An attractive place, it is built in the style of a Swiss chalet with overhanging roof, Campbell's own design. It is being constructed by Residential Builders, a local concern owned by Mark Rouche, Dave Hayden, and Steve Newman.

Campbell explained that he decided to purchase the diner property after first inquiring into leasing existing facilities and finding high rents to be prohibitive. He said he felt it would be better to build his own place and make an investment in the future.

The Wilmington Diner which once stood on the property was a landmark with a long and varied history in the town.

In 1941, at the height of the heyday for diners, Frank Carter and his wife moved to Wilmington from Medford. There, three years earlier, they had been neighbors of another Wilmington restaurateur, Rocco DePasquale, Sr.

The restaurant business must have been a lucrative one in town at the time, for the Carters opened the Wilmington Diner and ran it successfully for 25 years.

Upon their retirement in 1966, the diner was sold to John and Irene Parr. John, a big, burly man, and Irene gave the diner a homey touch.

Wilmington resident Tony Albowicz, who worked there for several years has said that Irene knew some of the customers' preferences so well she would have their breakfast on the counter when they walked in the door.

Albowicz, who is now a chef at the 129 Restaurant in the East Gate Shopping Center, seems to have come by his culinary talents naturally. His father was a chef who cooked for years for Tom Yawkey, the late owner of the Boston Red Sox. Tony's sister Judy also worked at the Wilmington Diner for some years.

In 1967, the Parrs sold the diner to Theodore Vees who ran it for a short while before once again putting it on the market.

Somewhere about 1971 or 72 the diner was owned by Leo LeBlanc, a former train conductor and constable.

The last owner of the diner was Michael S. Avratin of Boston. He purchased the diner some time during 1972 along with another piece of Wilmington property, Ricky's Dog House, which he renamed the Wagon Wheels. The diner, he called the Wedgewood Diner and he ran it for a period of about three years until a fire closed the doors for the last time in 1975.

Notice to Wilmington Dog Owners

Starting September first, it is the intention of the dog officer to summons those owners into court, and prosecute for having unlicensed dogs.

Election next Tuesday

If there were to be a quiet election, certainly it would be one held in August with only one name on the ballot.

Well, next Tuesday's election for State Representative is one with only one name on the ballot, and it is anything but quiet.

The man on the ballot, Jim Miceli, is being challenged by two sticker candidates, one of whom he defeated in the primary. Robert J. Cain polled 1392 votes to Miceli's 1712. Another sticker candidate, Bernard Mahoney, is a new candidate since the primary.

Cain's sticker candidacy is something new in Wilmington elections. Some people admire him for his non-defeatist attitude. Other people feel that he is not a proper candidate, having lost the primary. And no small number of people are still scratching their heads, trying to figure out what's going on.

The campaign has had its share of shenanigans. One man's car had the windows broken out of it while it was parked in Wilmington Square with Miceli signs on it. The roof sign was also stolen. Another car had a can of paint splashed on it, in a separate incident.

The appearance of some tank trailers painted with Cain's name have reminded some people of the campaign in which Cain's father, the late Fred F. Cain, bought a fleet of milk trucks and had them painted with political signs. He then had his supporters park them in prominent places around town.

Deleted material in Miceli's advertisement last week in the Town Crier added to the confusion. The names of four very prominent endorsements were left out. Congressman Paul Tsongas, Speaker Thomas McGee, Rep. Phil Shea of Lowell and Rep. Robert Vigneau of Burlington have all endorsed Miceli. Their names were in the advertisement when it was made up, but they had been removed before it was printed.

Stickers

With two sticker candidates in the election, some people are unsure of how to use a sticker with the voting machine.

The first candidate to run on stickers since the town bought the voting machines was Joe Hartka. He ran for Redevelopment Authority last spring, and lost. His stickers did not meet the mechanical requirements of the machines. The jammed the mechanisms, and cost him many votes.

A special window is used for stickers and write-ins. It is located at the top of the machine. When opened, the window exposes a roll of paper, where the sticker is applied. The paper advances when the lever is moved.

Bong Show

For its final act of the summer, the Wilmington Recreation Department staged a "Bong Show" last Wednesday night at the High School auditorium. A take-off on the "Gong Show," it was a talent show with both children and adult leaders taking part. The prizes were for the children, and the bong rang for the adult acts.

First prize went to 11-year-old Christine Enos (left) of the Woburn Street playground, singing "I Want To Be Your Everything." Stacy McDonald, age 7, of the Boutwell Playground won second, with "Delta Dawn."

Youngsters from the Tiny Tots' playground sang "Old MacDonald Had A Farm." Kelley Olson couldn't resist raising her mask for a look at photographer Linda Allen.

Topping off

The gazebo is complete. David McMillan and Steve Lawrenson pause after installing the weathervane on the Wilmington town common landmark on Tuesday evening. The vane, designed by Linda Campos, includes a representation of the Baldwin apple. The founding date of the town, 1730, is included in the corner angles.

The Big Band sound on common Thursday night

by Elaine DePasquale

Music will fill the air this Thursday evening, Aug. 25 at 8:00, at the new gazebo on the town common.

On this date, the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Free Family Concert from 8 to 10 p.m. with popular music by Big Band Revival, Inc., an 18 piece band which has performed with overwhelming success at the Burlington common.

Wilmington's gazebo was a gift to the town by Wilmington High School's Class of 1977. It was built over the summer months with the help of much volunteer labor and material and was initiated by a band concert held on the common on July 4 before the construction was entirely completed.

The gazebo is now finished and ready to be officially dedicated by the Class of 77 at a 7:30 p.m. ceremony preceding Thursday evening's performance.

In addition, the gazebo will be sporting an imposing new weathervane, designed by artist Linda Campos, a 1969 graduate of Wilmington High School.

The black wrought iron weathervane boasts a Baldwin apple and apple tree and the number 1730, the date of the town's incorporation. It was donated to the gazebo committee by Packet Landing Ironworks of West Barnstable, Mass.

David McMillan, representing the Gazebo Committee of the Class of 77 has expressed his hope that the town will make frequent use of the gazebo and prove the construction to be worthwhile. He said he would hope to summon the support of private industry.

In Burlington, the Recreation Department has organized a summer-long series of weekly concerts, each one sponsored by a different member of the business community. Weekly turnouts there have gone as high as 400 people.

In the event of rain, Wilmington's concert will be held on Friday, Aug. 26.

Tender loving care

Lusann Simmons and Bobby Sigmond share a quiet moment during last Thursday night's Camp 40 Acres cookout.

U.F.O. sighted

Vinnie Anomanisto never thought much about U.F.O.'s, at least not until Saturday night.

Vinnie is a taxi driver for Joe's Taxi in Wilmington. He usually works nights. On Saturday, about 9:15 p.m., he was driving south on Main Street, returning from Tewksbury. He was near Tattersal's when he first saw the object, he said.

It was a fairly large disc, hovering about 500 feet above the ground, he said. He kept an eye on it until he reached Wilmington Plaza. He then drove near the stores to tell Joe's other driver about it, and by the time he had moved away from the stores to be able to see it again, it was gone. He said he had watched it for two or three minutes.

He described it as having some eight or ten windows, and a dark area where there would be room for about three more. He said that it rotated as it hovered. He said that it appeared to be over the area in the vicinity of Clark Street and Middlesex Avenue.

Mail truck burns

An engine fire caused extensive damage to a mail truck on Grove Avenue in Wilmington on Tuesday morning. Confined to the engine compartment, the fire melted the pump, carburetor and battery of the truck. It is believed to have started in the carburetor. Driver Phil Fenton and the load of mail escaped unscathed.

The truck, a half-ton American Motors van, was towed away. The Postal Service has replaced it with a Jeep.

Jew for Jesus speaker Aug. 28

Jeff Fritz, staff member of Jews for Jesus, will be the special speaker at the Congregational Church, Wilmington at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 28.

Mr. Fritz was raised in a Reform Jewish home on Long Island. Soon after his bar Mitzvah, he came to the conclusion that God did not exist and became an atheist. In 1972 he was challenged to investigate the claim that Jesus is the Messiah. Mr. Fritz came to the realization that this was true based on Jesus' fulfillment of specific prophecies of the Messiah found in the Old Testament. In August, 1974, he left his job as an announcer and chief engineer for a West Virginia radio station to become a staff worker in the Los Angeles branch of Jews for Jesus.

Since July 1976, Mr. Fritz has served as the branch leader of the Boston branch of Jews for Jesus. While this branch is located in Cambridge and centers much of its activity on the Boston area college campuses, its outreach extends to cover a large part of the New England area.

In recent years, a substantial number of Jewish young people have been turning to Christ and accepting Him as the Messiah of Israel and Savior of the World.

Jews for Jesus feel that they have not forsaken their ancestral heritage. Instead, their interest in Judaism and the Jewish experience increases when they make decisions for Christ. Jews for Jesus continue to worship and live as Jews, to the extent which the Jewish community will allow them. They also feel a strong allegiance to the church and participate fully in evangelical churches.

The Congregational Church in Wilmington has invited the public to hear Mr. Fritz speak. Call 658-2264 for information.

... JIM MICELI

Jim Miceli will be a strong voice in the State Legislature. He thoroughly understands the fiscal problems facing the towns of the Commonwealth and the legislative issues which must be addressed. He has the courage to speak out loud and strong on these critical issues.

Because of Jim's hard work as Co-chairman of the Middlesex County Advisory Board (a group of selectmen and mayors) this board has recommended a cut of $1.2 million dollars from the county budget. The Governor has agreed to veto the budget submitted by the County Commissioners unless this amount is deleted.

If You Own A Home
Then Check These Figures

A frame house constructed in 1965 would cost approximately 12% more if replaced in 1969, 20% more in 1973 and up to 100% in 1977.

Brick construction has increased almost 7% each year as has the cost of apartment houses and industrial properties.

Give it some hard thought. Are you adequately insured?

"Puzzletown" exhibit at library

You won't find the Mayor at City Hall these days. Not if you're looking for Mayor Fox of Puzzletown, that is. He's residing at the local library along with some of his friends, and they're now conducting their daily activities there.

The Mayor and his friends are part of a special "Puzzletown" display currently exhibited in the children's reading section of the Wilmington Memorial Library.

The Wilmington Library was one of more than 2,500 libraries across the United States which recently received complimentary Puzzletown play sets from Playskool, Inc., a division of the Milton Bradley Co.

Specially developed by Playskool for children three to eight years old, Puzzletown is a put-together, take-apart storybook town featuring the book characters of Richard Scarry, renowned children's book author/illustrator.

Most children and their parents are familiar with Puzzletown's characters through the more than 120 books that Scarry has written and illustrated. The books are popular library items, and many librarians recommend them to parents of pre-school children.

In addition to soft, squeezable miniature Scarry characters, Puzzletown comes with playboard bases and woodboard and plastic pieces that children can build, take apart and rebuild into various storybook settings.

In addition to Mayor Fox, other Scarry characters inhabiting the "town" are Sgt. Murphy, who patrols the town

Careers and occupations from airplane pilot to zoologist will be on display Friday, August 26, at the Holmes Elementary School cafeteria, gym, and playground in Malden.

The occasion is Career Day, the climax of an eight-week long Summer Program for Economically Deprived Youth in the CETA consortium of 12 cities and towns.

Approximately 1800 youngsters will be bussed in from Wilmington, Burlington, Everett, Malden, Melrose, North Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Winchester and Woburn.

The youngsters will be able to explore one or many of the occupations which capture their interest. Displays will be staffed by people with sufficient knowledge of each particular field to answer any questions.

One half the group will view the displays between the hours of 10 a.m. and 12 noon and the remainder from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Television viewing for college credit

You can master the basics of good writing, or learn about different cultures in the privacy of your own home this fall, by setting your television dial to either Channels 2, 44, or 57.

Middlesex Community College's Division of Continuing Education, as a member of the Community College of the Air, will be offering two new television courses beginning Sunday, Sept. 4. These courses will carry three college credits and cost $25.00 per credit hour.

"Writing for a Reason," a first semester college composition course is one of the new courses to be shown on local stations. Using dramatization, music, interviews, cartoons, and student interaction, this course features general instruction in basic writing skills and specific instruction in writing for particular reasons. This course also meets the requirements for English Composition and Literature I at the College.

Also scheduled is an introductory course in cultural Anthropology, entitled "Dimensions in Culture." Television enhances this study by visually taking the student to the "far corners of the world" and through time. Film interviews with such outstanding anthropologists as Dr. Walter Goldschmidt, Dr. Jane Goodall, and Dr. Margaret Mead are featured.

SPORTS

South holds on 10-8

Wilmington High fullback Gordie Fitch rumbled in for a second quarter touchdown and a defense led by Wildcats John Campbell, Dino Esposito, Bob Kohler, Ray Gaud and Tom Gillis came up with the key stops when it counted as the South Stars hung on for a 10-8 win last night in the 28th annual high school classic at Cawley Stadium.

Coach Fred Bellissimo's team scored all 10 of their points in the second quarter as Fitch capped an eight play-44 yard drive with a two yard plunge over the left side that put the South on top to stay 6-0 with 2:10 left in the half. Tewksbury's Al Santos converted the extra point to finish off the mini drive that started when Wilmington's Esposito blocked a Tommy Sciolia punt at the 35 with 6:09 to play in the second quarter.

Late in the first half another North mistake set up a 28 yard field goal by Santos. With a second and thirteen situation at his own 19 North quarterback George Scullane (the game's MVP) was rocked hard by the South's Tilton. The ball popped free and Tewksbury tackle Joe Gorfinkle recovered the fumble at the North 16 yard line. After South quarterback Mike McNamion was dropped for a big loss Bellissimo's boys got a break when the North was hit for a personal foul penalty that sent the ball to the 13 to set up the Santos boot.

The North came out with a high powered ground attack in the second half as quarterback Scullane and fullback Sciolia led a 14 play - 60 yard drive that culminated with Scullane sneaking in for the final yard. The quick Ayer quarterback then hit Sciolia with a two point conversion pass in the left corner of the endzone to chop the South lead to 10-8.

The North's second half domination continued in the fourth quarter as they ran off 18 plays to the South's seven. Scullane and his talented backfield of Sciolia and Lowell's Atmire Bailey churned up 48 yards before Tewksbury tackle Gene "Mousey" Roux busted in to block Scullane's attempt at a 28 yard field goal. The Roux block saved a South defense that bent, but didn't break. Scullane ran the quarterback option almost at will throughout much of the second half. The big play that helped slow up the North's drive to the game winning score was turned in by Tewksbury defensive back Mike Seymour who came up fast to cut down a Sciolia ramble around left end.

The play forced a third down and ten call for Scullane at the thirteen yard line. With 31 seconds to play the quarterback rolled right and overshot a diving Paul Crory in the far right corner of the endzone. The Littleton halfback dove face first as the ball sailed through his hands. On the next play the defense and Roux toughened to give the South their second straight win under Wilmington's Bellissimo. Last year the South rolled to a 22-6 win over coach Chet Steele's North contingent.

All-Star after thoughts: Wilmington's star quarterback Jimmy Stewart was held out of the game with an ankle injury. No sense in taking a chance with Jim headed for a promising career at Tufts University next fall. Tewksbury's Mark Brown suffered what was thought to be a dislocated left shoulder on the first play of the second quarter. The star corner back was looking forward to playing some college football at the University of New Hampshire - but those plans may be delayed if the injury is serious enough.

It was an all Tewksbury - Wilmington offense that started the game with the exception of Chelmsford quarterback McNamion who replaced the injured Stewart. The South could have used Jim's running ability in certain situations. Fitch and the entire North squad kept up a running conversation throughout the game after every tackle. The bruising Wilmington fullback took some hard knocks on a sore back.

The total offense for the game had the North running up 203 yards to the South's 82. Fitch was the South's leading ball carrier with 17 carries for 70 yards. Sferazza picked up 32 yards on nine lugs. McNamion threw just one pass - and it was a bouncer that deflected off the hands of Roux and Kohler in the endzone with 1:17 to play in the first half. The South drove to the North's 10 yard line in the opening quarter, but McNamion fumbled the swap from Tewksbury center Ron Lambert.

Rec Summer Leagues

Wil-Nots take One-Pitch crown

The Wil-Nots won all three playoff games last Saturday afternoon to take the boys "one-pitch" softball title. Earlier in the week, Graphic Arts topped John T's, 11-7; Elites belted Wil-Nots, 9-5; and Super Stars nipped Stepan Elites, 6-5.

In the semi-finals, Wil-Nots defeated John T's, 8-6 and Elites overpowered the Super Stars, 16-4. In the best of three championship series, Wil-Nots whipped Elites twice, 15-12 and 10-7.

Distaffs conclude summer season
The Junior Recs lost all three make-up games last week to conclude their Middle Essex League season at 3-15. On Tuesday, August 16 the Wilmington girls played Billerica tough before bowing 5-4 in eight innings. Offensively Mariellana DiGirolama, Lisa Pellerin and Lisa Madden paced the Recs, while Susan Rowe pitched an outstanding game.

However, Thursday, August 18, Burlington slammed the Recs, 15-0.

On Friday, August 19, Coach Doyle's club lost to North Reading, 10-1.

In "in-town" league action, the Brewers nipped the Rebels, 12-10 at Town Park on Saturday, August 20. The Brewers led from the outset and held the Rebels throughout. Mary Alice Woods had two hits, while her sister Eileen scored three times. Mary Rose scattered six hits to gain her second straight mound win.

An Open Letter To The Voters of Wilmington

On August 2nd Jim Miceli won the special primary election for State Representative by defeating Robert Cain.

He was the top vote getter in both Wilmington and precincts 11 and 12 of Billerica. Although the vote was tight in Billerica, in Wilmington it was large with more voters turning out than in most town elections or in the special Senatorial election in June.

In the August 3rd edition of the Wilmington Town Crier the following front-page ad was inserted:

THANKS

The Cain family wishes to thank all those people who worked for, supported, and voted for Bob Cain in the primary. The backing will be long remembered. Congratulations and best of luck to the victor.

Sincerely,
Bob Cain

In the August 10th edition of the Merrimack Valley Advertiser, Bob Cain was quoted as saying "The people of the district appear to have pretty well made up their minds." He said he was pleased with the number of people who came to the polls and that his efforts to convince them to send him in his father's place had simply fallen short.

Also on August 10th, Cain announced that he would be a sticker candidate on August 30 in the General Election.

Sticker candidates are usually people who have not obtained enough legal signatures or have not filed their papers in time to get on the ballot. They are not people who lose elections but wish to keep on running. Do not be misled. If every candidate who lost a primary chose to continue on stickers, primary elections would simply be a waste of the taxpayers' money.

We urge all the voters in this district to turn out in record numbers on August 30 to vote for the only qualified candidate for State Representative - Jim Miceli.
